Unusual indeed in the fact that that hasn't been the case. Watch, "This is a black and white with black and white."

A Baltimore policeman picked up a mail girl riding tricycle for a moment other than that her name was "Mama." He could learn nothing about her from the station to police headquarters. Finally some one thought to ask her where she bought her candy when she was a child. She gave the name of a store in New York without hesitation. "The store was east. Her name was Mary Jones, aged four. She had received her mother in a downtown street," Harper's Weekly.

Consolation for Fat Folks
Many people in middle age and beyond are the worst and most serious offenders in the fat of reducing. Not intentionally, with most folks, but with years. The layer of fat that becomes most noticeable over the stomach is furnished for additional warmth and protection to vital organs, and to compensate for the fact that with age the body generates less warmth. A little fat, at forty, is less a sign of physical degeneration. —American Magazine.

ARBITRARY DIVISION OF EUROPE AND ASIA CAMEL.
The conception that the grand land mass of the world consists of two separate divisions, natural upon the face of the earth, is a Syrian who dwelt east of the Mediterranean. It was a creed that they should have received Europe and Asia as two continents, because civilization. In both had grown up in these parts was they are separated by large bodies of water. The Assyrians called Greece "Iria" or "Irida" meaning west or sunset, to distinguish it from Asia Minor, which they called "Ass," signifying east or sunrise. "Irida" was adopted by westerners into "Europe" while "Assia" is derived from "Ass." Later these names have extended to one from Greece to all Europe, the other from Asia Minor to all Asia. The Ural river, for the sake of convenience is now regarded as the boundary between Asia and Europe, "continent," which is derived from Latin "continua," meaning to continue, has a very clearly defined meaning when applied to a land mass. In a general sense means a very large continuous body of land, differing from an island or peninsula not merely in size but also in structure. Some general land divisions are now regarded as continents—Europe, Asia, Africa, North America, North America, Australia and Antarctica. Greenland, being much smaller than the others, is frequently referred to as an island continent. So Europe and Asia consist of a single land mass, naturally a single continent, classifying the two as one continent.

These ballastings are fireproof and it is claimed, have the advantage of being cool in summer and warm in winter, owing to the "overcoat" of air within the tubes which surround the pipes.

Mr. Savage found that a hundred pounds of any material, when made into a mat and a tube both of the same length, the tube will support five times the weight without breaking. An Interesting Record.

How "Gold Standard" Came

The two methods of analysis described would not be suitable for a linear system because the 180° phase shift of the transfer stability would be compensated by a 180° phase shift in the transfer function. The purpose of the above analysis is to provide a method of determining the transfer function of the system that will not be lost.

Вывод: на основании проведенного анализа можно сделать вывод, что в настоящее время в России наблюдается тенденция к снижению уровня жизни населения, что связано с рядом факторов, включая экономические, социальные и политические. Для улучшения ситуации необходимо комплексное решение проблем, включающее в себя реформы в различных сферах жизни общества.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or goal. This involves understanding the current situation and what needs to be achieved. It is important to be clear and specific about the objectives.

LITTLE SHOES

Guide her feet among the flowers,
Little Shoes, I ask of you.
Lead her on to happy hours,
As the world she journeys through;
Guide her little baby feet
Into girlhood, pure and sweet.

When there's right and wrong to choose,
And there's danger stalking near,
Lead her safely, Little Shoes,
Into pathways clean and clear.
Little Shoes, I wish that I
Might, as you, be always nigh.

Old and battered Little Shoes,
You've a task that's mighty sweet.
If one task were mine to choose,
Mine would be to guide her feet.
May my own steps lead her on
To Godly paths and halcyon.

Uncover "Main Street"

of Ancient Olynthus
Main street, Olynthus, Greece, which was laid in ruins ever since 348 B. C., has been excavated by a Johns Hopkins university expedition, led by Dr. David M. Robinson, professor of archaeology.

An entire city block, with 27 houses, was uncovered by the expedition, and the main street running north was given the name "Main street."

"In the houses we found floors of beautiful pebble mosaics, in red, purple, blue and white," said Doctor Robinson, describing the discoveries. These are the oldest mosaic floors known. Some have famous myths beautifully pictured in the pebbles. One floor shows Pellerophon and his aged horse encountering the mythical beast, the Chimera, which had a lion's head, goat's middle and the tail of a snake.

In the previous expedition of 1928, in which the ruins of Olynthus were first found and identified, Doctor Robinson was unable to locate the cemetery. This time he found two cemeteries.

The houses that have been uncovered date from about 400 B. C., Doctor Robinson concludes. Olynthus was a large city, having a population of some 65,000, judging from its ruins. It was destroyed suddenly and violently by Philip of Macedonia, the father of Alexander the Great, in 348 B. C.

Child of Earlier Days

Shielded From the Sun
George Washington no doubt would look with great astonishment at the system of raising children of this generation of Americans. He took a keen interest in the health and healthfulness of his stepchildren and step-grandchildren, yet the sun baths which are part of the daily regime of a well brought-up child of today, whether of the family of the laborer or the millionaire, would have caused the Father of His Country to blink his eyes, no doubt.

George Washington, who took a great interest in his little stepchildren, ordered for "Miss Custis" at three years old, from abroad, a supply of children's muslin in order to protect her complexion from the rays of the sun. Holly Madison, wife of President Madison, as the little Quaker girl, Betty Payne, had a faithful mother with enough of the world's vanity in her Quaker mind to sew a sunbonnet on the tiny girl's head every morning, put long gloves on her arms and hands and make her wear a mask to keep every ray of sunlight from her face. How the mothers of today, with their modern ideas would be horrified, if asked to perform this daily heavy duty for their young ones.—Washington Post.

Representative McFadden's Violent Attack on President Hoover Stirs House—Chicago Wins the Republican National Convention.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

TWO Republican members of congress from Pennsylvania—Representative Louis McFadden and Senator David A. Reed—stirred up the national legislature by violent attacks on the policy of President Hoover and the administration in relation to the moratorium on international debts and the suggested revival of the refunding commission with the possibility of cancellation of war debts.

McFadden, former chairman of the house banking and currency committee, was especially bitter in his hour-long speech, asserting that Mr. Hoover had "sold out" the United States to "the German international bankers" whom he named as Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the Seligman, Paul Warburg and "their satellites."

He said the administration's course in working for acceptance of the moratorium was like "the way of an original potentate drunk with power."

Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, a Tammany Democrat, joined in his first shouting to the Republicans:

"It's not President Hoover as we see him talking about, but if more of you will defend him from charges which are brought for impeachment, I'm going to."

But Representative McFadden of Illinois, Republican, was attacking, and his words were vigorous and accurate. Said he:

"If the gentleman (McFadden) means what he says and if the gentleman in answer, let him and his associates prepare articles of impeachment against the President of the United States and let those articles of impeachment be tried, and then the proof may be known, and let the guilt and infamy and horror fall where it may. The President of the United States would ask for such action, knowing that the truth and a fair inquiry would vindicate him."

"Ladies and gentlemen, if there is one particle of integrity in the statement the gentleman has made, let the gentleman produce proof of the charges. Let him show that we have a President who is unworthy of occupying that high office or let him go from this chamber as a foul traitor of the character of an honest man."

SENATOR REED, who has often been regarded as the spokesman for Secretary Mellon, denounced what he called the propaganda by the international bankers to force cancellation for their own selfish interests, and he declared that he was up against the revival of the war debt commission as proposed by the President.

"We have cancelled," he said, "all we are going to cancel, it is within the power of most of the nations of Europe to pay as the amount of these debts as long as that fact stands in the face of it is sheer lunacy for us to be any more generous than we have been in the past."

Senators McFadden of Tennessee and Johnson of California followed in much the same vein and both declared they would not vote even for the one year moratorium. The latter was before the house ways and means committee and Federal Reserve bill and Secretary of State Stimson both appeared before that body to urge ratification.

SPEAKER GARNER and Senator McFadden of Pennsylvania had declared that the House moratorium bill was a "silly" move and that it would be a "silly" move to the President's side of the House.

The committee also declared that every power of the House should be used to force the President to pay the debts.

trants delivered their entire vote to Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a regular who was a leader of the so-called "young guard" last session. But both Vandenberg and the young guard spurned this overture and continued to vote for Moses.

CHICAGO captured the Republican national convention of 1932, the administration's alleged opposition to that city not manifesting itself. The national committee, presided over by Chairman Fess, listened to earnest arguments in favor of Chicago and Atlantic City, and on the first ballot gave 80 votes to the former and 14 to the latter. The choice was then made unanimous. Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia and St. Louis withdrew their bids before the balloting began, none of them having been able to raise the money for the convention expense. The committee decided that the convention should be called for the 14th of June.

Chicago guarantees up to $150,000 to pay for the expenses of the G. O. P. gathering, and her hotels have agreed to accommodate 3,500 delegates, altercates and newspaper men at rates of from $1.50 to $1 a day. The convention will be held in the new stadium, which can seat about 20,000 and which has ample accommodations for committees, etc. It has a run-down roof without obstructive pillars, a modern ventilating and refrigerating system, excellent acoustics and a fine pipe organ. The only drawback is the fact that the stadium is located on the West side, several miles from the hotels that will house the visitors.

RELIEF for the nation's jobless is still foremost in the mind of Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York. Last week he introduced in the senate a resolution designed to set in motion the machinery created by the federal employment stabilization act which was passed last session at his instance. This would mean a start on a two billion-dollar federal public works program that would give employment to thousands of men.

In the preamble to his resolution, Senator Wagner set forth facts and figures showing the gravity of the depression. After citing the numbers of unemployed, the many bank failures and the falling off in production, he showed that the volume of construction for the third quarter of 1931 was $2,800,000,000 or 53 per cent less than for the third quarter of 1929, that the volume of building contracts awarded declined $2,447,000,000 in the first nine months of 1931 below the similar period in 1929; that the volume of construction of public works and public utilities has fallen from $1,000,000,000 in the first nine months of 1929 to $842,700,000; that the whole volume of building materials declined from an index of 52.0 in January to 71.4 in September, 1931, 142 per cent greater than in September, 1929, and in October, 1931, 113 per cent greater than in October, 1929.

OVER in Basel, Switzerland, the Young plan advisory committee, of which Alfredo Testa, of Italy is chairman, was said to have abandoned any intention of making strong recommendations for the complete abolition of reparations payments by Germany, although this was strongly urged by British, French, Dutch, Belgian, and American members. The committee instead was probably charmed by the fact that the Young plan, which was adopted by the League of Nations in 1923, was still being paid.

UNDER pressure, Chiang Kai-shek finally has resigned as president of China, and with him Minister of Finance Soong and Foreign Minister Wellington Koo also have stepped down.

The result, it is predicted in the official press, will be a united China under a coalition government, with the Canton faction holding the upper hand. The group that overthrew Chiang includes Dr. Sun Fo, son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen; C. C. Wu, former minister to the United States, and Eugene Chen, formerly foreign minister.

For the present Lin Sen, a veteran member of the Nationalist party, is at the head of the government.

Chiang Kai-shek explained his resignation in the following statement:

"I have tried to fulfill my obligations over since I was made chairman of the National government in 1928. My comrades at Canton said they would come to Nanjing only on condition that I resign. This means that I must retire before peace and unity are restored."

MUKDEN dispatches indicate that Manchuria will soon become autonomous, with Gen. Tsang Shih-yi as its first ruler. The general has just been installed as governor of Fengtien province, of which Mukden is the capital. He replaced Yuan Chin-kai, who was installed after the Japanese captured the city in September and was never considered more than a temporary figurehead.

JAPAN'S new premier, Tsuyoshi Inukai, in his first interview declared Japan does not covet an inch of ground in Manchuria but insisted that Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang must withdraw his army from the Chinese region. He said the Japanese demanded only their treaty rights, with guarantees of safety for their nationals in China.

In response to a question regarding disarmament, the premier said, "I favor it. One of the most absurd ideas in the world is the insistence upon maintaining large armies and navies."

He concluded the interview with the hope that the United States would soon get over its streak of thrift and "buy more silk—Japan needs the money."

The premier has appointed as foreign minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa, ambassador to Paris and Japan's representative at the meetings of the League of Nations council.

CHANCELLOR BRUNING'S government in Germany seems to be secure until January at least, for the Socialist party in caucus decided to support him long enough to give him an opportunity to enforce the price reductions he promised in his emergency decree. If he fails in this, the Socialists will join the Communist and Hitlerites in opposition and may overthrow him.

The reich authorities are working hard to uncover the facts in the Fascist plot against the republic which they believe exists. In reply to Bruning's threat to mobilize an army if necessary to crush the Nazis, Herr Hitler gave out a long letter in which he called the chancellor, called his emergency worthless and demanded liberty and power for the Fascists.

REPORTS of the royal mix-up in Rumania continue contradictory and confusing. The latest is that King Carol and Prince Nicholas have made up, that the latter has agreed to give up his wife, Jana Delyt, legally but not physically, and that he will therefore retain his royal titles and prerogatives and his military commands. So Nicholas and Jana will be merely companions, as were—and are—Carol and Magda Lupescu.

ENGLAND'S round table conference over the status of Burma promises to go the way of that concerning India. The other day three delegates representing certain elements in Burma withdrew from the conference because of dissatisfaction with the British statement of intentions to give Burma a constitution under which it would become a self-governing dominion. The three delegates said they went to London with instructions from their people to return immediately if a statement was made that it was not their intention to give Burma a constitution.

ILLINOIS Republicans are anxiously waiting to learn whether United States District Judge James H. Wilkerson will run for governor of that state. So far he is silent. Recently Judge Wilkerson called on President Hoover and it is said the President urged him to go after the governorship, preceding his election. The judge, it is reported, would prefer to remain on the bench and in recent he stated promotion to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

Being Constantly Amused

We have never had moving pictures or vaudeville houses open on Sunday in our town for more than a few days at least. Every few years the subject comes up for discussion and sometimes even a vote is taken, but so far the opposition has won out.

Those who favor the opening of the theaters on Sunday argue that there is nothing to do if they cannot see a vaudeville show or a moving picture. They are resourceless; they yawn or sleep through the day and are glad when Monday comes and they can take up their regular work again.

The thing that has interested me in observing the people who have made the longest plans for the Sunday theater is that they are the ones who have most opportunity if they choose to use it, for this sort of recreation during the week.

I was more than interested while reading excerpts from the autobiography of Mr. George Arliss to get a point of view very different from what one might expect from this great actor who has spent all his life on the stage and who must have a very favorable opinion of what the theater has to contribute toward the healthy amusement of the public.

"If I had my way," he says, "I would close all theaters and all movie houses on Sunday. I would make it a day apart. I would withdraw all the ordinary amusements except outdoor sports. . . . There is no reason why the day should be dull for anyone. There are always good books. There are hobbies to be pursued. I would have all the art galleries and museums wide open. I would have classical music and high-class concerts. . . . I do not suggest that this class of entertainment is necessarily better, but it is different, and it is likely to open up in one's mind fresh ideas. . . . An unbroken routine in our amusements may be as bad as a steady grind in our labors."

It is his last sentence which appeals to me.

"An unbroken routine in our amusements may be as bad as a steady grind in our labors."

BUTTERFLIES ARE TRAVELERS

One of the greatest long-distance flyers is the large Cabbage White butterfly, to be seen everywhere in summertime. These insects sometimes hatch out in millions on islands in the Baltic and, finding food supplies insufficient, collect into great hordes and migrate to places all over Europe. They are sometimes seen passing over Germany in clouds so thick that they resemble snowstorms. The Painted Lady's real home is Central Africa. In some seasons, millions upon millions of these insects cross the Sahara desert, spend a short time on the shores of northern Africa, and then continue their journey northwards. Many reach the British Isles, and it is not uncommon for a fair number to arrive in Ireland.

That $2 Superstition

The origin of the superstition that a $2 bill is unlucky no doubt had its origin in the fact that counterfeiters often "split" their order to make two $20 bills out of one twenty, and a two. It has also been said that $2 was the price formerly paid for a vote by corrupt politicians and that $2 bills were used for payment. It was facetiously said to be prima facie evidence that one had sold his vote if he possessed a $2 bill. In 1925 the government attempted to popularize them by inserting one in each pay envelope of federal employees, but this method did not succeed in bringing them into favor.

Daytime Frocks

This is the season for wool frocks and color. On the left is one of the new jacket dresses designed especially to carry out a contrast such as bright green wool over black or rust over brown. On the right is the type of frock so effective in a soft sheer wool crepe—wide reverse collar, roomy sleeves not quite wrist length, and slim wrap-around skirt.—Woman's Home Companion.

Conduct Rules

Never hear patiently of evil, nor speak that which is mischievous and wicked; utter no lies, prevarications, or hypocrisy; use no deceit nor over-reach in trade or dealing; never oppress the weak and humble, nor offer any violence to your neighbor.—Ex. change.

Christmas

We hope when it's Christmas you'll be glad,
We hope when it's New Year you'll be gay;
We hope through the year you'll ne'er be sad—
We want you to be happy every day!

A Merry Christmas Dinner!

We hope you'll have a drumstick that is eatable,
Potatoes mashed, and gravy of the best,
A slab of mince or pumpkin pie uneatable,
And—it doesn't matter much about the rest!

AMERICA'S WORLD RESPONSIBILITIES

By H. J. HAAS

H. J. HAAS

Let us look to the future with confidence. Every one has experienced a great sorrow some time, perhaps a great sorrow we felt we could never overcome it, but time is the great healer and eventually we have come out of it. As it is with individuals, so it is with nations. Our nation has had much sorrow in the 155 years of its existence. In that time we have passed through the major depression of
